

December 4,
Friday.

Beautiful:

I guess I have to straighten things out, although I don't think it is wise. There isn't a letter that you've written that I haven't received. You misunderstood when I said that I was waiting to see if you would drop me two without my writing but one. If it will bring your letters more often I shall certainly keep saying that I'm not getting them.

I received the candy today too, and it is wonderful. The boys think so too. So you can cook too, huh? I like the pecan candy very much.

I have two days off so I think I'll run down to Miami tonight and stay till Sunday. I've always wanted to see the place.

I have to catch the bus in a little while so I guess I'll close. I wish that you would send me Mrs. Garrette's address
I should have written her long ago.
Be good and so long till next time,
and by the way - I think you are very sweet.

Love
