

January 20,
English

Dearest June:

Well, I haven't heard from you and in such a long time, however, it was from my girl that I last heard from. I received your v. mail written on New Year's. The day before that I had a v. mail from Leonard my cousin. I guess the mail is tied up again somewhere between here and the great Southwest. I'm sure you've written and I will hear from you soon.

Shirley has been assigned to a group and he isn't as close to me as we had hoped, but all roads lead to London and there we will meet every chance we get.

I guess you know how I feel when I don't hear from you.
I'll have to stop now for a while see ya later - - - - -

Here I am again. Just listening to the lil radio we have in our barboche. Some English girl is singing "Embraceable You" from Lil Crazy. Have you seen it yet?

I saw Janu Eyre a few days ago. It was good too! They had a revival of Robin Hood which I went to see also.

One of the boys on my crew has a brother that is at Ellington Field now. His name is John R.
McAdam (the bombardier on my crew) and the brother's name is Gene McAdam. If and when I find out his address I'll send it to Abner and you all can meet him and show him around the town. I've seen pictures of him. He is tall, good looking; has black hair. He is going to be a Bombardier also.

I have a few days off coming up and I hope that I can be with Lard, but I might have a little trouble reaching him this time.

I hope all of you are having fun back home. Be sure to tell me Aunt Myra's address in your next letter. I promised to write her as soon as I could.

This afternoon and no mail again. I can't understand it.

I hope to see a few more pictures on my day off and maybe I'll see Aunt and Fontaine in "There Shall Be No Night."

I guess I'll sign off now

No questions to answer.

Take care of yourself and I'll write again soon.

Love
Bill

P.S. I'm getting short on shaving soap and lotion.
How about sending me some when you can find it? Thanks.
